CHURCH SPIRES AND BELLS DOOMED

[By Latest Mail]

OAKLAND, Cal., May 2.—Church spires and church bells are doomed to go as relics of the past, declares the Rev. E. J. Bradner, pastor of Grace Methodist church of Oakland. Mr. Bradner is a modern church advertiser and uses an electric revolving cross seven feet square that can be seen for miles. At night this cross hangs in air, apparently on fire, turning slowly on its axis.

"The old accepted methods of church advertising, the spire and the bells, are useless and are passing," says Mr. Bradner. "The bell disturbs the peace but does not attract and the spire only wastes space and money. I believe in modern methods and printers' ink and have found that newspaper advertising brings more people to my church than a dozen bells."

Sugar is now awaiting the Matsun Navigation steamer Hilonian at several island ports.

Three coasting steamers are listed for departure for island ports today. The W. G. Hall and Noeau will proceed to the island of Kauai. The Claudine will be supplied with freight for Kahului. These vessels will carry passengers and mails.
